Every child with Down Syndrome is entitled to one phone call

As a medical professional, you'll probably be the first person to suspect whether a newborn infant has Down Syndrome. Though it may be difficult, encourage the parents to call us.

Tell them that the Down Syndrome Association of the Philippines works hand-in-hand with the medical community to provide parents with educational seminars and early intervention programs. These programs, if given during the critical first year of life, have been proven - without doubt - to dramatically improve the potential of children with Down Syndrome.

Children with Down Syndrome now have a chance to live a better life. Let's give them that chance. Call the Down Syndrome Association of the Philippines.
